Portly Gentlemen Defeat Slender Brethren in

SEVEN INNING GAME

At Anderson Park by Score of 14 to 11—The Lincolns—Sensational Slide—South Paw Catch.

Of all the ball games played at Anderson park during the season between regularly organized teams none surpassed in interest and enthusiasm the one played there on Tuesday between those who are known as the "Fats" and those who make lesser shadows as they walk in the sunshine who are known in physical nomenclature as "Leans".

The portly gentlemen were probably saved from defeat by the game's being divided of the two posterior innings, for the lesser weights would probably have demonstrated the truth of the adage, "A lean hound for a long chase."

Notes on the Game

The "Fats" had 23 hits to 16 by the "Leans".
The sensational slide of a rod by Clothier Oppenheimer was heartily cheered by the spectators.
Adam Diehl banished the flies.
Landlord Fisher and Pitcher (Si) Young each had four hits to their credit.
Attorney D. S. Horn stretched forth his south paw and bade the ball stop, and after two bounds it obeyed.
Sheriff Imler "caught the culprit" when it went his way.
Warren Snyder was given first on balls, but McMullin wouldn't let him anchor there.
Gilbert Greenburg, who had been imported from Huntingdon as official umpire, was retired on half pay, and Dr. Grissinger and Albert Holderbaum thereafter did the guessing as to balls and strikes.
The losers are to furnish a chicken and waffle supper at "Aunt Eliza" Heitzel's for the whole mob.
A sprained ankle still remains with Charles Yont.
Seven innings—no more.
Despite the fact that Rufus Squier, of the DuPont Powder Co., Wilmington, Del., and H. E. Young, of the Union Metallic Cartridge Co., were in the game there was no shooting done. The price of arnica and iodine has advanced.

ANNALS OF BEDFORD COUNTY

The historical pamphlet bearing the above title was prepared especially for Old Home Week by Hon. William P. Schell and is not a reprint of articles that have appeared in The Gazette, though it contains parts of several former articles.
Among the comments that have reached us are the following: "It is concise but complete"; "It merits a place in the public schools"; "It is clear, concise, and accurate and should be in every library in the county."

Copies may be obtained at this office or by mail for 50c.

Sessions of Court

At a session of court held by the Associate Judges on Friday a petition of citizens of East St. Clair was presented asking for the appointment of viewers to change a public road leading from the Bedford and Hollidaysburg road to a suburb town. George W. Cunard was appointed surveyor and John H. Moses and Thomas P. Beckley, viewers.

At another session on Saturday petitions were presented as follows:

In re proposed bridge over creek in Juniata township, known as The Head Waters of the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River, D. W. Prosser was appointed a viewer instead of C. C. Leidig who was discharged at his request.

Petition of Sheriff for approval of allowance of forty cents per day for boarding prisoners allowed as prayed for.

Morris Reunion

The second annual reunion of the Morris connection will be held near Everett on September 7. A cordial welcome is extended to all who wish to do so to attend. Committee.

STATE CAPITOL GRAFT REPORT

Contracts for "Trimnings" with Gigantic Graft Awarded in Defiance of Law—Criminal and Civil Suits Recommended—Huston, Sanderson, Shumaker, Cassel and Others Implicated in Big Steal.

The Capitol Investigation Committee appointed by the Legislature to inquire into the graft in connection with the erection of the building and the furnishings of the capitol at Harrisburg have placed their report in the hands of Governor Stuart and have recommended civil and criminal prosecutions, and the Governor has announced that the prosecutions will be vigorously conducted by Attorney General Todd and assistants.

The report is most drastic and recommends in addition to those specifically mentioned, the prosecution of any and all persons concerned in the fraudulent transactions in connection with the $13,000,000 "palace of graft." Ex-Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker is censured for his part in the approving of fraudulent contracts, and Ex-Governor Stone and his associates of the Building Commission are censured for their neglect to prevent the "trimming."

Liability to Prosecution

The following persons are involved in the Commission's report and are subject to civil and criminal prosecution:

JOSEPH M. HUSTON, architect; collected almost $525,000 in commissions; accused of issuing false certificates "with intention to cheat and defraud the state."

JOHN H. SANDERSON, chief Capitol "trimmer," who bagged $5,487,899 worth of Capitol contracts; accused of making false invoices "with intention to cheat and defraud the state."

CONGRESSMAN H. BURD CASSEL, president of the Pennsylvania Construction Company, which had a $2,000,000 steel filing case contract; accused of making false invoices "with intention to cheat and defraud the state."

JAMES M. SHUMAKER, superintendent of public grounds and buildings; receipted for the Capitol "trimmings" without question; accused of issuing false certificates "with intention to cheat and defraud the state."

CHARLES G. WETTER, partner in George F. Payne & Co., builders of Capitol; also had the $308,000 attic job; accused of making false invoices "with intention to cheat and defraud the state."

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER, Governor and member of Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, which awarded to Sanderson the general "trimmings" contract, which was "illegal and unauthorized by law."

WILLIAM P. SNYDER, Auditor General; approved Sanderson and Huston and Cassel warrants; also member of Pennypacker board.

WILLIAM L. MATHUES, State Treasurer; paid the money demanded by the Capitol "trimmers" and Huston; also member of the Pennypacker board.

MENTIONED IN BRIEF

Many Items of Interest From Town and County.

The clerks and business men of the town have challenged the professional men for a ball game next week.
A festival will be held at the Reformed church in Rainsburg tomorrow, Saturday, evening. All are invited.

A marriage license was granted this week to James S. Decker of Huntingdon and Mamie Moffatt of Saxton.

We have remaining a few copies of Bedford in Ye Olden Time which may be secured at this office or by mail for 25c.

Rosa Amanda Clouse of Rainsburg and James Thomas Allen of Foote, W. Va., were married in Cumberland this week.

Mrs. W. Clay Lutz returned the first of the week from Huntingdon where she attended the funeral of her niece, Miss Katherine Kiner.

The pamphlet laws of Pennsylvania for 1907 are in the hands of Prothonotary George W. Derrick and may be had by Justices upon calling for them.

The Old Home Week committee desires all bills against the organization to be presented to the secretary, D. C. Reiley, Esq., before Monday, August 26.

Miss Irma Russell entertained a number of her little friends Wednesday night at the pleasant home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Russell, Richard street.

The Misses Brightbill entertained a few friends last Friday evening in honor of their guest, Miss Lillian Twigg, of Cumberland, who returned to her home on Saturday.

A horse belonging to two young men from Blair county was stolen from the Osterburg picnic grounds Wednesday night. It had not been located at a late hour yesterday afternoon.

Tuesday evening of this week, a farewell reception was given Rev. and Mrs. A. T. G. Apple by the young people of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. Refreshments were served on the lawn at the church.

DYNAMITE EXPLODES SHUMAKER TO TELL

Works Havoc Among Would-Be Violators of the

STATE FISH LAWS

George Saville Dead and His Brother John in Serious Condition—Two Others Missing.

Sunday morning of this week George and John Saville and two others whose names have not been divulged went to the river near the Timber Run water plug south of Hopewell to kill fish with dynamite. It is stated that they were seated on the bank of the stream in a group and in a condition not conducive to the safe handling of dynamite. They were, it is thought, capping the explosive and handled it too roughly, when the explosion wrought its awful havoc.

George Saville, the first one found, was not discovered until Monday morning when some workmen going along the railroad found him a quarter of a mile from the scene of the explosion, where he had crawled for fresh water. One of his legs was badly shattered and his whole body affected by the explosion. He was brought to Bedford on the 10:45 a. m. train and taken to the almshouse, where during the afternoon he died while his leg was being amputated by Dr. A. C. Wolf. Death was caused by previous loss of blood.

John Saville was found later and brought to Bedford on the 3:45 train and taken to the almshouse. He is in a serious condition and is barely able to see light, though he may recover.

The bodies of both men were mutilated and burned and the clothing, in places, was blown into the flesh.

CLEWELL CUPPET KILLED

Bedford County Man Mysteriously Shot in Florida.

The remains of Clewell Cuppet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Cuppet, of Ryot, were brought to Bedford on Wednesday from Florida and taken by Undertaker Albert Pearose of New Paris to the parental home at Ryot. The funeral services were conducted in the U. B. church at Ryot yesterday at 1 o'clock by Rev. J. E. Ott, and interment was made in the cemetery at the Stone Church on Chestnut Ridge.

Cuppet was found in his room in a Florida hotel with a bullet hole in his temple, which with the presence of his revolver with an empty chamber seems to indicate that during despondency he took his own life. He had been ill and was under a physician's care all of the day preceding the shooting, but feeling better in the evening he said he could stay alone. The whole matter is shrouded in mystery and relatives will probably go south to investigate.

Mrs. Abram Dennison

Mrs. Sarah Dennison, widow of Abraham Dennison, died at the residence of her son Harry Fetter of Turtle Creek on Thursday, August 15. The remains were brought to the residence of Valentine Leppert on Friday and the funeral was held from there on Saturday by the deceased's former pastor, Rev. C. E. Keller, who preached the funeral sermon at the house where a large concourse of friends and former neighbors had gathered. The interment was made in the cemetery near Schellburg. The deceased was aged 61 years, eight months and eight days.

Mrs. Dennison was the second wife of Abraham Dennison; she was a good step-mother and neighbor. The Dennison children and grandchildren from Point, Johnstown, Moxham and Boswell were all present. The neighbors and friends from far and near attended the last services held over the remains of their former friend and neighbor.

Mary Ellen Pensyl

Mary Ellen Pensyl, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pensyl, of Friend's Cove, died on August 11 after having been sick with convulsions for a few hours. Funeral services were conducted from Trans Run M. E. church by Rev. E. C. Kebock. Interment was made in the Trans Run cemetery.

Lawrence F. Smith

Lawrence Frederick, son of J. C. and Aneta Smith, of Bedford, died Friday afternoon of cholera infantum, aged seven months and 22 days. The funeral service was conducted Sunday afternoon by Rev. A. T. G. Apple at 4 o'clock.

Joseph Marshall

Joseph Marshall, colored, died on Thursday of last week of consumption, aged 30 years, 10 months and 26 days. The funeral services were conducted on Sunday by Rev. H. S. Hicks and interment was made in the colored cemetery.

Koontz Reunion

On Saturday of last week 12 of the 15 surviving children of Josiah Koontz of Colerain township, with grand children and friends—39 in all gathered at the old homestead to participate in the family reunion which was a most pleasant occasion. Frank and Mrs. Emma Snively, of Altoona, and Mrs. H. M. Amos of Lorain, O., were unable to attend.

Marriage Licenses

Franklin C. McGuffin and Bertie Shoyer, of Possville.
James J. Harlow of Bloomington, Md., and Miss Muri of Londonderry.
William S. Leeking of Millstone, N. J., and Agnes E. Zook of Riddesburg.

Schools to Open

Prof. Potts Elected

Prof. C. J. Potts, for nine years superintendent of the schools of the county, has been elected principal of the new Logan high school at Greenwood, a suburb of Altoona.

Prof. Potts was a most efficient teacher in the schools of this county prior to his election as superintendent and many a young man and young woman owes much to his effective work as a teacher and his example and influence as a man. As county superintendent he did much to raise the standard of the teaching force and better the work of the schools. Wisdom has been exercised in returning him to the school-room.

From Philadelphia Public Ledger

Johnstown, August 21.—The very closest personal and political friends in this city of James M. Shumaker, former Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings in Harrisburg, and who is among those slated for prosecution in connection with the $3,000,000 state capitol scandal, declare that when he goes on the witness stand he will make it absolutely clear that the prosecution will have to go up higher if it hopes to convict the man responsible for the entire graft.

These personal and political friends are the only ones permitted to see Mr. Shumaker. Newspaper men and others cannot gain admission to the Shumaker home. Mr. Shumaker's friends assert further that he has strongly urged his former secretary, George C. Keim, to give the fullest possible information, and it is stated that Shumaker will not rest until he gets that consent.

The statements contained above are what Mr. Shumaker was today declared to have said to one of his friends, a man whose word is as good as a gold bond.

"I am going on the stand and tell everything. I will not keep back a single thing, and when I get through it will be as clear as noonday light that a man high in official life in Harrisburg is the man who ought to go to the penitentiary."

"I have committed no wrong. The probers may be after me, but I will go after the man they are protecting. I will not spare him; I am going to tell all I know. I do not propose to suffer for the sins of a man who knew that colossal graft was going on."

It is understood that the alleged graft was to cover a Treasury shortage and save the name of Quay.

Shumaker is quoted as saying, "So help me God, I am an innocent man."

Miss Statter Goes South

Miss Emily Schell Statter, daughter of Maj. S. F. Statter, who some weeks ago accepted a position on the teaching force of Frank Hughes College, Clifton, Tenn., left yesterday to take charge of her work.

Miss Statter is a most estimable young woman and a teacher of rare ability. She always ranked high in the public schools from which she graduated at the head of her class. She attended the Bedford Classical Academy after graduating from the High School and later entered the sophomore class at Wilson College from which institution she graduated second to but one classmate, being barred from first place by a long-established rule because she had spent but three years in the institution.

As second assistant principal in the Bedford High School during the past two years she clearly demonstrated her ability as a teacher of merit.

We predict for her marked success in Frank Hughes College with which institution Prof. D. C. Stunkard, former principal of the Bedford schools is now connected.

Miss Statter was accompanied south by Mrs. D. C. Stunkard and her children.

On account of our being unable, up to this time, to secure all the cuts we desire, we have been unable to complete the Old Home Week Souvenir Album. They will be mailed in about 10 days.

Comet Grows Brighter

The comet continued to grow brighter and its tail increased ten fold in length during the past week. It is moving toward the sun but can be still seen in the east about four o'clock in the morning. After awhile it will have passed the sun and may be visible in the evening.

REV. THOS. K. DAVIS

Pastor of Presbyterian Church Here and at Schellsburg More Than HALF CENTURY AGO

Recalls Incidents and Experiences
While in Bedford—A Miraculous
Religious Awakening.Wooster, O., Aug 1, 1907.
Rev. H. B. Townsend,
Bedford, Pa.

My dear Brother:—The card of invitation to Bedford's Old Home Week, with the accompanying note, was duly received. A press of other engagements seemed almost to render impossible my complying with your request to write out some reminiscences of my pastorate in Bedford; but such is my interest in the dear old church, which was my first charge, and my desire to keep in touch with it that I will endeavor, though laboring under difficulties, to resuscitate something of my Bedford life.

During the school-year of 1845-6, I had charge of the Bedford Academy, and during that time I became much interested in, and attracted to the town and its mountain scenery; to the people also, and especially those in the Presbyterian congregation. At the end of the year I went to Princeton Theological Seminary. During the school-year of 1849-50, I was teaching in the Chambersburg Academy, and, as a licentiate, preaching at Fayetteville. In the month of May an invitation came to me to visit Bedford and preach for a Sabbath in the Presbyterian pulpit. This pleased me greatly. I obtained release from school and pulpit and spent the greater part of the month of June in and around Bedford and Schellsburg. At the end of this visit, I wrote: "I have been surveying the field. A great deal to be done. Hard work for a young man; but an inviting field to me. The people seem unanimous in wishing me to come. And although I am very loath to give up going to Princeton again, Providence seems to be directing me to go to Bedford. Although I do not feel furnished for the work, I could not refuse; such seems the desire of the people to have regular preaching, and to have me for their minister."

So I accepted a call to Bedford and Schellsburg, and my labors in that field covered five years—from June 1, 1850, to June 1, 1855. I was installed at Bedford on the 8th of November, 1850, and at Schellsburg on the 16th.

I was young and healthy, willing to work, and I did work hard. I now believe that if I had been better equipped, and more fully prepared for the work, I would have done better work, and with less labor. But as it was I loved the people, and worked with a will, preaching three times a day most of the time during the five years. I preached in Bedford and Schellsburg on alternate Sabbaths. On my Schellsburg day I preached at the Stone Church, near the "Forks of the Road" in the afternoon, returning to Schellsburg for an evening service. This continued for four years. At the end of that time we thought that Schellsburg and the Stone Church (one organization) were strong enough to support a pastor, and Bedford wanted all my time.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, tired liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in small of back, nervous or disturbed sleep, "small of back," perhaps nausea, or "rising" in stomach, or throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

I therefore ceased my work at Schellsburg in June, 1854, and commenced preaching twice each Sabbath in Bedford. But as Schellsburg was long in securing a pastor, and Bedford was not strong financially, promising me only six hundred dollars a year, I continued preaching at the Stone Church every two weeks, in the afternoon. I also engaged to preach once a month, in the afternoon, in a school house near Mrs. Hunt's in Cumberland Valley, and once a month, in the afternoon, in the new Union church building in Snake Spring Valley. This arrangement continued during my last year at Bedford. While I made mistakes, on account of my inexperience and want of adequate preparation, yet I was devoted to my work, and very earnest and persistent in my prayers and efforts to win souls to Christ, and to build up the church. And God was good and gracious above all our deserts.

I have just looked through the Gen. Ass. minutes for those years. I find that in 1849, and also in 1850, the number of communicants in the two churches was 139. Nothing else whatever was reported. In 1851, the number in the two churches (they are not reported separately) was 163; in 1852, 183; in 1853, 219; in 1854, 218, and in 1855, 218. Number of adults baptized, 20; of infants, 76. Amount of congregational expenses, $3,582; and of benevolent contributions, $1,006.

We had rarely, if ever, a communion season in either church without one or more persons being added to it. A remark of Dr. Archibald Alexander, at Princeton, made such an impression on my mind that I have always made it a special matter of prayer and of effort to have one or more persons ready, each communion, to enter the church either on profession, or by letter. If, on several occasions in each church, a considerable number were received, it was in consequence of repeated personal visits and prayerful interviews with individuals whom I was anxious to win to Christ.

The largest ingathering, at one time, that we had was at Bedford at a communion on March 13, 1853. Thirty-one persons were added to the church, 30 on profession and one by letter. This was the result of an unusual religious interest which manifested itself during a communion season in the preceding January. It was the custom, when the assistance of a neighboring minister could be procured, to have a four days' meeting, beginning on Friday and ending on Monday. At the January communion, the Rev. Joseph Clark of Chambersburg was with me. Deep feeling was manifest during these meetings. Each evening I invited those who were concerned about their salvation to come forward, or to come to me privately. These invitations were accepted every time. Mr. Clark preached his closing sermon Monday evening. Two ladies came forward. One gentleman, a lawyer, at the close of the meeting, invited Brother Clark and me to his house. He wished to confer with us on this matter. At his house we had a most affecting scene. In the presence of his entire family he bewailed his past life, and confessed his great desire to be saved. We encouraged him with the precious truths of the gospel, exhorting him to begin at once the discharge of all known Christian duties. Saying "That's right; let me begin now; let us pray," he knelt down, and we all knelt. He began praying for the first time in his life, before others; praying with strong crying and tears, and amid the tears and sobs of all who were in the room. The change in this man was so sudden, and so decided, as to startle the whole town. It was the beginning of a revival of religion that extended to all the churches. For a month or two religion was the all-absorbing theme.

One of the most encouraging circumstances in my time was the re-establishment of the Academy, under the Rev. John Lyon, in 1851. He was a lovely Christian character and a successful teacher. He was a great help to me during the revival meetings. His assistant, W. W. Campbell, was also an earnest Christian and a valued helper in the good work.

I was married, in August, 1851, to one of the best of wives. She was not only a great help to me personally, but by her work in the Sabbath school, the formation of a Ladies' Prayer Meeting, and her active participation in church work generally, up to and perhaps beyond her strength. She was largely instrumental in bringing about the good results which became visible.

I had classes for recitation in the Catechisms. In the Stone Church I had some encouragement and success, but not so much in Bedford or Schellsburg. Much of my traveling over my extensive field (it extended from some miles below Bloody Run to the summit of the Alleghenies), was on horseback. I did not mind riding through the rain or snow. I remember with pleasure, even yet, some of my rides through heavy snowstorms among the mountains and hills of Bedford county.

Present-day pastors and people know nothing of the discomforts some of us had in the ante-bellum days. It was rather a common thing for the lamps to go out, one after another, until we were almost in darkness, and the poor preacher, who needed to look at his notes, was almost in despair. The pulpit was very high, and had to be reached by a long flight of steps. The pews were of the old-fashioned kind, with straight high backs, and half of those around the walls were square pews, intended for the larger families.

I will jot down the names of families in the congregation, so far as I can recall them, that you may compare them with the names on your roll at the present time. In town—Barclay, Beckwith, Blodgett, Bowles, Bowman, Brice, Burd, Cramer, Colfelt, Davidson, Deffenbaugh, Dickert, Filler, Foster, Gettys, Hall, Hickok, Jordan, Leantz, Loy, Loyer, Lyon, Kean, Mann, Miller, Mower, Reamer, Russell, Stiver, Thompson, Taltierro, Tate, Vondersmith, Washbaugh, Watson, Williams. In the country—Barndollar, Brown, Crane, Gilson, Hoke, Hunt, Lee, Myers, Sparks, Patterson, Pearson, Silver, Spear, Rea, Rose, Peebles, Watson, Weisler.

Some of the ministers who assisted me during communion seasons were, Rev. J. H. Symmes of Cumberland, Dr. David McKinney of Hollidaysburg, Rev. Ross Stevenson of Johnstown, Rev. J. Y. McGinnies of Shade Gap, Rev. Thomas P. Hunt, Dr. D. X. Junkin of Hollidaysburg, Rev. Joseph Clark of Chambersburg.

To go back to the discomforts of those days. Our church in winter was sometimes too cold. I recollect once at least that I was compelled to keep on my overcoat during the entire service. How much my congregation must have suffered at such a time I cannot say.

Two of our children were born in Bedford. Our first-born, now a man of 55, came to us on the morning after the Fourth of July, 1852. Our second, a daughter, who has been in Heaven for 52 years, was born on the day after New Years in 1854. It was a singular coincidence that, on the previous day, I had preached to my Bedford people from the text, "Boast

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pains of this terrible disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granules, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. THE CALL OF THE SEA.

"The water is fine; come in!"

This is the call of the sea, the generous invitation of Old Neptune to partake of the delights of his realm, and it comes clear and distinct from each of the points in the greatest chain of seashore resorts in the world—the wave-washed New Jersey coast.

Gay Atlantic City; witching Wildwood; New Cape May in the first flush of its rejuvenation; Sea Isle City, Ocean City, with their smaller sister-resorts nearby; Asbury Park and Long Branch where sylvan shades meet incoming billows—each echo the call to young and old: "Come one; come all."

Unequaled opportunities are offered to pay a visit to the New Jersey sea coast resorts in the great seashore excursions of the Pennsylvania Railroad now being run at frequent intervals.

From Pittsburg and points in Western Pennsylvania the remaining dates are August 29, and September 12. Tickets are sold to Atlantic City, Wildwood, Cape May, and other resorts on the Southern New Jersey coast, and to Asbury Park, Long Branch, and resorts on the Northern New Jersey coast at very low rates.

These tickets are good for return passage within sixteen days, including date of excursion, and are good to stop off at Philadelphia on the return trip within limit. Special trains are run on dates of excursions through to Atlantic City via Delaware River Bridge Route without change of cars.

Full details of these fine outings beside the sea may be obtained of Ticket Agents.

not thyself of tomorrow: for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

Our people were occasionally regaled with the best of preaching by eminent ministers who were visiting "The Springs," and who sometimes were kind enough to give a welcome relief to the young pastor, and a very acceptable change of diet to the people. I recall the Purviance family, of Baltimore, as regular visitors, and as interested in our church. I recollect that I was almost upset when I recognized, in Mr. Russell's pew, the Hon. James Buchanan, who was then or soon after, a candidate for the presidency, to which he was elected.

I think there never was a young minister who enjoyed his first charge any more than I enjoyed mine. Mr. John Mower, our elder in town, and Mr. James Rea, our elder in the country, were both good men and true. They had the respect and confidence of everybody. Mr. Mower as superintendent of the Sabbath school, and leader of the choir, could not have been loved any more than he was, if he had been pastor. He was the young pastor's chief counselor and assistant. If I were at any time worn out, after two services and a long ride, Mr. Mower was ready to take charge of the evening meeting. When there was a vacancy in the pastorate, Mr. Mower held the congregation together and kept things going. In the pretty long vacancy, before I took charge, he conducted a protracted meeting at a time of more than usual interest.

I thought our singing the best, our girls the prettiest, our families the most interesting, and our men the most upright and reliable, that could be found anywhere. I believe the people were really sorry to have us leave, when, in the spring of 1855, I suddenly concluded that the health of my dear wife demanded our removal to the Pacific coast, especially as there was a loud call, just at that time, for Presbyterian ministers to go to California. If I had been truly wise, and possessed of foresight, I would have remained in Bedford as long as the good feeling which then existed continued. But I wasn't, and so the change was made. But my leaving was all for the better, so far as the Bedford church was concerned.

It gave to it, for ten years, one of the best preachers and most beloved pastors in the Presbyterian church—the Rev. Robert F. Sample, who afterwards became so eminent in the church.

In closing, I would say to the dear people who now constitute the Bedford congregation, especially to the young people: I have been young, and now am old; I have had a long and varied experience, but the longer I live, the more I love the blessed Savior, whom I preached in my youth to the people of Bedford county. The church of Christ has passed through trying times since then—especially during the "scientific craze," in the latter half of the nineteenth century. Multitudes of people lost their foothold and slipped away from the Rock of Ages; lost their heads even, and let go their grip on God; lost their faith in the Holy Scriptures, and became unbelievers. A still greater number came to be tormented, with painful doubts about the truth of Christianity. The church and the world are still feeling the effects of that "craze." We see it in the mad race for riches, and in the madder race for worldly pleasures, and in the cold indifference with which so many regard the Gospel call and the wholesome warnings of a gracious God.

But I tell you, there is nothing in the glare of the world, and the fascinations of sensual pleasure. The world, the flesh, and the devil are as real, and as busy, and as much opposed to the real happiness of men as they ever were. There is some truth in evolution, but much of it is mere assumption and conjecture. There is a criticism of Holy Scripture which is necessary and helpful to true Christianity. But much of the Higher Criticism is destructive of Christian faith. It is bad, and it is mostly guess-work.

Oh, they are wise, and only they, who cling to the one true and living God, and to Jesus Christ, His Son, our Lord, who came into the world to make God known as a Father and a Friend, and to save men from bewilderment, and sin, and ruin, by bringing them back to God.

I would not give my hope in Christ, my peace with God, and my joy in the Lord for all the wealth of a Rockefeller, for the fame of the most illustrious statesman, or for all the pleasures which money can procure. God bless the pastor and people of the dear old church of Bedford.

Yours in a precious Gospel,
Thomas K. Davis.

DAVID B. WEAVER

One of Three Who Discovered First Gold, on

YELLOWSTONE RIVER

Seeks Membership in Pioneer Association—Was Deputy Recorder of District.

Henry A. Frith, secretary of the Yellowstone Association of Pioneers of Eastern Montana, yesterday received a letter from David B. Weaver of Saxton, Pa., inclosing an application for membership in the association.

Mr. Weaver is the sole survivor of the party of three prospectors who, on August 27, 1864, arrived in Emigrant gulch at the place where Chico Hot Springs now stands and made the first discovery of gold made on the Yellowstone river, at what was later the town of Fridley. After more prospectors came into the new camp a district was organized which was named the Shorthills Mining district of Emigrant gulch, after one of the prospectors who made the discovery, David R. Shorthills. At that time a number of bylaws were made governing the filing of claims in the district and Mr. Shorthills was elected recorder, appointing Mr. Weaver his deputy soon after.

In October, 1865, members of the first territorial legislature were elected in the new camp, which was called Yellowstone City, and besides Mr. Weaver there are only three others of the members elected at that time living. They are Mr. Batchelor, who still lives in Emigrant gulch; Ben Strickland, a ranchman of Trail Creek, in the upper Yellowstone Valley, and William Huckney, who wrote the laws of the Shorthills district, who is now in the soldiers' home at Los Angeles, Cal.

In his application for membership Mr. Weaver states he was born in 1840, and arrived in Montana August 27, 1864. This makes Mr. Weaver the oldest pioneer in the association, should he become a member. It is said that an effort will be made to have Mr. Weaver admitted to the association as an honorary member. Mr. Weaver is well known in Saxton, Pa., his home, having served as County Commissioner in the county for a number of years. He is going to assist the Western Historical Publishing Company of Spokane in compiling an illustrated history of the Yellowstone Valley.

In his letter Mr. Weaver gives a short biographical sketch of the life of David Shorthills, one of the original discoverers of gold in the valley, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. F. Hancock, of Pine Creek, Montana, in which he says that David Shorthills was born in Huntingdon county, Pa., February 28, 1831. In 1856 he went to Kansas, then the scene of the great slavery struggle. In 1858 gold was discovered on Cherry Creek in Colorado, and he went thither in quest of the yellow metal, traveling by the Smoky Hill route. Three years later he returned to his home in Pennsylvania and enlisted in an infantry company to fight the Confederates. After the battle of Antietam he received a wound, being shot clear through the body, and was ordered home for medical treatment. In 1863 he received an honorable discharge from the army as the wound made him unfit for further service. Mr. Shorthills left Saxton in the spring of 1864 with four others, David Weaver, Richard Owens, Alexander Norris and George Travis. Three of this party discovered gold on the Yellowstone in Emigrant gulch in 1864. Later Mr. Shorthills returned to Pennsylvania and was made superintendent of a mine there during the reign of the Molly Maguires, and received a wound in the shoulder at the hands of one of the band. After somewhat of an uneventful life in Pennsylvania, Mr. Shorthills moved to Texas and finally back to Montana, settling again in Emigrant gulch, where he maintained his home until 1897, when he sold his interests and took up his residence with his son-in-law at Pine Creek where he died.

Favors Covered Pails

The advantages of using covered pails with small openings are apparent from the fact that one of the most prolific causes of contamination is from the cow and stable at the time of milking. When these small pails were first introduced into my stables the men claimed that they could not milk into them, but when one of them was reminded that one of his diversions was milking into the mouth of a cat sitting upon her hind legs his objection was readily overcome.—F. Destructive to Chickens

Rose bugs will kill chickens if they eat of them too plentifully. Chickens eight and nine weeks' old often turn up their toes and die in a few hours after filling their crops with these bugs. Oftentimes, in some localities, the grass is covered with these hateful bugs in the morning. Then if the chickens get after them with an empty crop the work is done.

Good Ship Roosevelt.

By RITA KELLEY.

Copyright, 1927, by Homer, Sprague.

"Betsy, let's run out into the Hudson and see Peary's ship!"

Betsy Cobb jumped at her brother's words and gazed with sudden interest out the window. She had come up to his office for a few moments' chat, and, as she felt the blood pounding into her cheeks and up to her hair, she wished poignantly that she had stayed away. To the Roosevelt, indeed!

"It's too cold," she objected, stimulating a shiver. "We'll freeze getting out there."

"Bosh! Get on your gloves. It isn't every day that one has a chance to climb over a vessel that's been within hailing distance of the north pole. I'll just cut my appointments. What's the trouble?"

She had balked flatly at the gentle urgency of her brother's hand on her arm.

"I won't go!" she declared. The doctor laughed good humoredly. "What's up? Is some fickle admirer who forgot for the first time to send you a box of candy for your birthday due out there this afternoon? Come on. It isn't every day I can run off, and it's no pleasure to go alone."

Betsy's head swam with a perspective of a chain of horrors opening up by her acquiescence; but, on the other hand, her brother's curiosity was not to be aroused too much. He had a most uncomfortable habit of going to the bottom of things.

"Well," she said reluctantly, "I'll go." She laughed a bit hysterically. "But I'd rather be banged."

Her brother remembered with some uneasiness that Betsy had not been herself of late. She was not so gay and fun loving as usual, and he often caught her moaning. That was what she was doing back at the office just now, and it decided him to run away with her for awhile.

"Betsy, don't you feel well?" he asked as they scrambled off a cross-town car at the ferry slip.

"Botheration, yes! What a silly question!" But, though her words were careless, she avoided his eyes and looked off down the Hudson. "You can't get across this day," she announced, with perceptible relief. "The ice is all caked up here on the New York side, so that a launch couldn't possibly get through."

"We'll hire a ferry, then," said her brother cheerfully. One thing was certain—the Roosevelt had something vital to do with her state of sulks. Good! He would probe further.

"Is there any way of getting out to the Peary ship?" he inquired of a policeman.

"Ice is pretty bad. No boats going out of here, but maybe if you walk up to Forty-fourth street you can get on a bigger boat. They been out once today. Guess you'd better go across to Jersey, though. No ice over there, and you can hire some one to take you out to midstream. The Peary boat is nearer the Jersey shore anyhow," he called after the determined looking physician, who had seized his sister's arm as the ferry gong sounded and was hustling her on board.

Betsy looked furtively at the vessel, lying low and gray, with her nose upstream, as the ferry passed. There was much deep interest amounting even to fascination in her glance, but she feigned extreme indifference. Several other people were evidently on the same quest, and as the ferry neared the Jersey shore a cry of disappointment went up. Not a launch or row-boat in sight! It looked very much as though those who were not good swimmers would have to content themselves with ferry glimpses of the famed ship, and cameras began snapping industriously.

Again Betsy's manner became more spontaneous.

"You will get out to the Roosevelt, will you?" she twitted her brother joyously. "Well, I don't envy you the swim in this temperature. Fortunately I'm a girl and so exempt!"

"Go, I don't know! Plenty of row-boats around here somewhere. You'll handle the oars all right. You are the most indefatigable croaker I ever saw!"

Following the directions of a longshoreman, he guided Betsy's lagging footsteps for five minutes across the bridge, down interminable flights of stairs, across the road to the "wood pile" and brought up before a rotten log enmeshed in ice cakes that led out to a log of decrepit old canalboats lying out of commission along the shore. A man appeared around the corner of the little turret on top of one of the boats and asked if they could row.

"Well, I should say!" the doctor shouted.

And Betsy was forced to scramble up the perpendicular old ladder on to the boat, thence across and down a ladder into a flat bottomed old fishing boat at the other end. Her brother took off his overcoat and wrapped it about her carefully before he seized the oars and fell in with the stroke of the old river man.

The doctor was studying Betsy closely. It looked to him very much like a case of the heart, he speculated as they drew near the ship. When she weakly made excuse to remain in the rowboat while her brother clambered over the ship, he was certain that the masculine reason lurked on shipboard. So Betsy, perforce, boarded the Roosevelt.

The ship was in gala dress, with many sightseers aboard. As Betsy and her brother stood on the deck clutching their hats in the stiff breeze, a young, brown, weather beaten man stepped up and rather shyly held out his hand to Betsy.

Instantly the doctor looked at his sister. She was flushed, painfully embarrassed and was stammering like an awkward schoolgirl. He was seized with remorse, and Dr. Cobb came to her rescue, chastising himself mentally. "Haven't I seen you before?" he asked engagingly, extending his hand to the now embarrassed man, who, he surmised, belonged to the ship, from a certain fine manliness that is only bred of hardship and self reliance.

The man smiled a little whimsically as he gripped the hand of Betsy's brother.

"You are Betsy—Miss Cobb's brother, are you not?" Then he, too, was covered with confusion. "I beg your pardon, she is not Miss—"

Betsy had turned sharply away, but her brother ran his hand through her arm and whirled her right about face.

"See here, young lady," he said seriously, "introduce me to this young man. What is it, my dear?"

To his chagrin and utmost self reproach she had buried her head on his shoulder, and he thought he heard something like a sob work its way out from the cloth of his coat. He could not raise her head. She burrowed it there. He could only look at the young northman and unwell a romance.

The man's face was drawn with a sort of starved tenderness, and his blue eyes gazed wistfully at the golden, shiny tendrils which escaped in the wind from the small black turban and swept the doctor's shoulder. Stern repression showed in the tense mouth. His whole expressive person seemed to bespeak the pain of having lost forever a much loved prize.

"Betsy, for heaven's sake, stop crying! Those people are looking at us." The doctor, having determinedly brought on the deluge, was taking man's inalienable right of blaming somebody else. Besides he wanted to know what this was all about.

Betsy disclosed a flushed but tearless face.

"Not crying." She denied the allegation spiritedly. "What is there to cry about? Foul! I just wanted a whiff of that nice, smelly iodine on your coat Mr. Jensen, my brother. And now—" she slipped a companionable hand through the arm of each—"show us the boat."

This was more like Betsy.

"What is your name?" he asked in a voice that was too vibrant to be called steady.

The doctor wheeled in consternation. "Betsy Cobb, haven't you ever met this man?" he demanded.

"Cobb!" The northman's big voice boomed up into the masts with sheer joy. "Aren't you married?" he cried, his boyish face breaking into a pathetic eagerness that was too beautiful and too intimate for any one but Betsy to see.

So the doctor was thrust out into a little world of his own for awhile, after Betsy ecstatically gurgled, "Gracious, no!" Betsy, dear little sister, didn't belong to him any more. And he had insisted upon getting rid of her!

"We've been engaged," Betsy's voice roused him, "ever since the Roosevelt sailed two years ago, but I promised not to tell till Paul came back. Do you know why I didn't want to come out here today? I thought Paul had forgotten. He never let me know he still cared."

"Foolish girl," said Paul, gripping both her hands in an ecstasy of recovery. "It's all the fault of old New York. I had forgotten in the ice floes that everybody down here moves every six months, and when I rushed up to Sixty-ninth street, all agog with delight to get back to the dearest little girl in the world, they told me Miss Cobb was married and didn't live there any more! Think of it! Some other Miss Cobb nearly bowling me off my feet like that! I knew two years was a long time for a fascinating little girl to remain true to a poor doc probably frozen into an ice cake around the north pole somewhere, so I didn't blame her much. I was going to be everlastingly grateful to her memory. For if it hadn't been for the thought of her I think I should have lost my grit once or twice. But as it was, I just kept on a-hungry."

"I knew it," said Betsy. "I knew it when I saw you."

Noah Under Scrutiny.

The last copy of the Atlantic Journal, published three months before the flood, has recently been located from the top drawer of an oriental magnate's desk.

It says editorially: "The radical utterances of old man Noah are to be strongly deprecated by all conservative citizens. Especially do we deplore his unwarranted attacks on the sin trust and its worthy board of directors."

"Aside from the fact that these gentlemen stand very high in the community, such wild denunciation and predictions of our people listened to last evening are likely to produce an unsettled conditions of affairs and damage business."

"It is generally believed that his motives are not above suspicion. In fact, those who are well informed hint that the old man has some watered and undigested stock of his own which he expects to float as soon as the sin trust is swamped."—Puck.

Gentle Persuasion.

Many stories are told of the eccentric doings and sayings of an old clergyman who lived in Maine some years ago. At one time there had been a fight among some men, one of whom was seriously hurt. A trial took place, and the old minister, who had seen the affair, was summoned as a witness.

"What was Salson doing?" was the first question.

"Oh, he was slashing around."

"Well, sir, just what do you mean by that?"

"Why, he was knocking about him here and there."

"Now, sir, kindly tell us plainly what Salson did to this man."

"Why, he—he enticed him," said the old minister slowly.

"Enticed him! How?"

"He enticed him with a crowbar. He used the crowbar to persuade the man—to entice him—and by a series of pokes and blows he succeeded in doing it," said the minister mildly.—Youth's Companion.

Mother Had the Failing Too.

The visitor had dropped in "just for a minute," but she remained about three hours after the minute was up. Little Freddie had formed several plans, the execution of which must be postponed till the departure of his mother's guest. So he sat quietly thinking things.

"Dear little man!" gushed the visitor. "And what is he thinking about so deeply?"

"I was wondering if it wasn't time for you to be going," said Freddie.

"Hush!" said his mother. Then, turning to her guest: "You mustn't be offended, Mrs. Smith. Children will go blurring out the truth without thinking. But they don't mean anything by it."

Strangely enough, it was just then that Mrs. Smith recollected that she had only three minutes in which to catch the last car home.—London Telegraph.

Try to Do This.

Take a light chair and place it with its back to the wall. Stand in front of it, facing the wall, with the toes about a foot from the front feet of the chair, and, placing one hand on each side of the chair, lean forward until the top of your head touches the wall. The problem is to lift the chair from the floor and, without moving the feet, to take the head away from the wall and stand upright. Simple as this appears, it is impossible. Very few people, as you will find, would anticipate any difficulty in doing this. Get them to try. This trick is, of course, very like the old one of standing against a wall sideways, with the shoulder and one foot touching the wall. It is then impossible to raise the outside foot without losing one's balance and falling away from the wall.

Russian Ritual.

The christening of a Russian prince is a ceremony of a most ritualistic nature. The infant is first of all undressed and immersed three times in the form of a cross, and the shorn locks, having been rolled in wax, are next dropped into the water. According as the ball sinks or floats in the font, so, says Russian superstition, does good or evil attend the child through life. The next incident in this elaborate ritual is the robing of the child in gorgeous garments, after which it is carried three times round the church, the godfathers of the imperial infant walking by its side in stately procession.

Coal Combustion.

There is enough explosive energy in a grateful of coal, if it could be liberated and controlled, to hurl a 1,000 pound projectile through a foot of solid steel. But there can be no explosion without oxygen, and the coal in the grate will not burn faster than the supply of air which reaches it will permit. If the coal could be furnished all at once with enough air to effect its complete combustion, it would explode with as great violence as if it were so much dynamite.

Her Perversity.

"Come out this evening," said Sub-bubs, "and I'm sure you'll get a good dinner."

"I thought you had no cook now," replied Ctitman.

"She doesn't leave until tomorrow. She'll do her best this evening just to make us realize how much we'll miss her when she's gone."—Exchange.

To Hide Them.

"Why is Jones growing a beard?" "Oh, I believe his wife made him a present of some ties."—Punch.

Thousands Have Kidney

Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease. Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When home of Swamp-Root.

Household Helps

When too much salt accidentally has been used, the effect may be counteracted by adding a tablespoonful of vinegar and a tablespoonful of sugar.

A crust of bread put into the water in which greens are boiled will absorb all objectionable rankness of flavor.

Olive oil is superior to lard or butter as a frying medium. Meats, potatoes, in fact everything to be fried in a skillet, taste better for being cooked in oil.

Cabbage that has been stewed in milk can be improved greatly by adding a beaten egg and baking until brown.

If a cake rises in a heap in the center it has baked too fast. If it has a coarse grain it was not beaten enough or the oven was too slow.

LITTLE POCKET PHYSICIAN

Hy-o-mei is Guaranteed by F. W. Jordan to Cure Catarrh.

Thousands who have been cured by Hy-o-mei call the inhaler that comes with every outfit the "Little Pocket Physician," as it is so small that it can be carried in the pocket or purse.

There is really no excuse whatever for anyone having catarrh now that Hy-o-mei is so readily obtainable. If you have any doubt about its value, F. W. Jordan will let you have a complete outfit, with the understanding that unless it cures catarrh, it will not cost you a cent.

The complete Hy-o-mei outfit consists of the "Little Pocket Physician" and a bottle of Hy-o-mei and costs only $1.00, making it the most economical as well as the only guaranteed treatment for the cure of catarrh. Remember that Hy-o-mei cures catarrh without stomach dosing, applying the medication and healing where the disease germs are present. Aug. 16-2t.

Putting Down Oilcloth

First cut oilcloth the size of the floor, then take a damp cloth and wipe up the floor. While the floor is damp put down the oil cloth and leave for about one or two days before tacking down. The dampness will stretch the oilcloth and you never will be troubled with a blistered or warped floor. The slight dampness also will evaporate through the oilcloth.

PRESIDENT FIRM

The following statement made in the recent speech of President Roosevelt tells in terms unmistakable and unequivocal where stands the nation's chief executive:

Once for all, let me say that as far as I am concerned, and for the eighteen months of my administration that remain, there will be no change in the policy we have steadily pursued, no let-up in the effort to secure the honest observance of the law, for I regard this contest as one to determine who shall rule this government—the people through their governmental agents, or a few ruthless and determined men whose wealth makes them particularly formidable, because they hide behind the breastworks of corporate organization.

This statement of the President does not declare war on wealth; it simply sets forth that his position now is and will continue to be during the remaining 18 months of his official duties as it has been in the past—for governmental regulation of trusts and corporations. Who shall rule the government, the people through their representatives or "ruthless and determined men whose wealth makes them formidable because they hide behind the breastworks of corporate organization," is the important question.

It is an old adage that a corporation has no soul, and if such be the case the time has come when the individuals who compose the corporation must be reached. In his statements in the speech there is no display of the spirit of vindictiveness; only determination. The trusts have had their day, untested, and they have grown rich at the expense of consumers, and riches have, figuratively speaking, corrupted their morals; and they deserve to become the prey of Justice, for the honest trust will not be hampered nor crushed, and the dishonest one deserves not an existence under the government, and certainly not protection.

SHUMAKER WILL TELL

James M. Shumaker, superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings under the Pennypacker administration, is confined to his Johnstown home and is claimed to be in a critical condition. His hands and feet are twisted so that he can walk only on his heels and cannot hold a cigar in his hand. In this condition the ex-official declares, through a friend, that it is his intention to go on the stand and tell all he knows concerning the capitol graft. He declares that he is innocent of wrong doing. With perhaps the grave in his impaired vision he wants to set himself right in the eyes of the people of the state before he takes that final, unknown journey.

Most significant perhaps of the statements made by Mr. Shumaker is: "The probers may be after me, but I will go after the man they are protecting." Who is the man concerning whom Mr. Shumaker will tell all he knows?

"To cover the treasury shortage and save the name of Quay" was the purpose of the graft. Such is the statement of one who should know, and he should be allowed to tell before he closes his eyes, for "enough" men have gone to the grave under a cloud, either by their own hands or otherwise, to save the name of Quay and shield the machine.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Interesting Games Played on Springs Courts.

The tennis tournament at The Springs last week under the management of the Bedford Springs Tennis Club for the championship of Southern Pennsylvania was a marked success and some excellent playing was done.

The courts were in excellent condition and the visiting players expressed themselves as being well pleased with their trip, and especially with the cordial treatment of the Springs Management. H. J. Randall of Philadelphia won the men's singles and H. W. and H. J. Randall won the men's doubles. Mrs. Joseph Hibbs of Philadelphia and Edwin Middleton, Bedford, won the mixed doubles. F. E. Powell of Cumberland won the men's consolation singles, and with L. T. Lawyer also won the men's consolation doubles in a hard-fought battle.

In commenting on the tournament the Cumberland Times says: "The visiting players were royally entertained by the Bedford Springs Hotel management and are unstinted in their praise of the courtesy shown them."

JUNIOR LEAGUE PICNIC

Children Enjoy Outing and Ride in Automobile.

On Saturday, August 17, Mrs. F. H. Todd, superintendent of the Junior League at Wolfburg, gave the children a very pleasant outing. The day was beautiful, and everything proved favorable for a good time.

Mr. Todd took the children from Wolfburg to Todd's big spring in his automobile. This was a rare treat for all as many never before had a ride in an auto. After thirty-five of the Juniors and a few invited friends had reached their destination, they all went in for a good time. The afternoon was spent in playing innocent games and anything that Mrs. Todd and the invited friends could devise to make the little hearts of the Juniors beat faster. All of the children and friends had prepared a lunch for the occasion, which when spread out, proved to be a feast good enough for even a king, and it was enjoyed by all.

After "Old Sol" was fast disappearing in the west, and all had cut up their "capers" peculiar to childhood, and Mr. Amick's "old bay nag" had completed her fifth heat around a twenty-acre field, the wagon filled with bright faces, and followed by many less fortunate children, running after to get on the wagon to fill the last vacant space. Mr. Todd was on hand to take the children home again.

All the Juniors agreed that they had an ideal outing, and long for a speedy return of a similar day. They are truly grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Todd for their kindness. One of the invited guests feels safe in saying, that occasions like these are a healthy stimulant to the Junior League and add much to make childhood days a blessing.

Auto Run to Bedford Springs

An informal meeting of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation will be held at Bedford Springs during the month of September and it is desired to hold a run in connection with the meeting. It is a splendid trip from this end of the state and one that no motorist of experience need fear. If the Touring Committee having the matter in charge receive sufficient encouragement definite arrangements will be made for the run. Any member desiring to take part in the run should address the secretary, S. Boyer Davis, so that he may be able to determine the sentiment on the subject and notify the Touring Committee of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation accordingly.—Philadelphia Record, August 16.

A CLOUD OF CRIME

Irish Rebellion Against Police—Conditions in Russia—Some Good in the Worst Criminal.

New York, August 21.—We have passed through a troubled week—not that there have been any serious acts of violence on the part of the strikers here, but we are in constant fear of some heavy disaster; idle hands are the devil's tools. A few non-union strike-breakers, when caught alone, have been set upon and badly beaten by a dozen brave (?) strikers, and one young girl, who was the sole support of a sick and dying mother, was caught by a gang of viragos and frightfully mauled; she got away from her tormentors and ran up the steps of a large house, hoping to secure protection. She knocked violently at the door, which was opened by a flunky, who, seeing the poor girl's face and torn dress and hearing the cries of the mob, slammed the door in her face and left her to her fate. The crowd then rushed up and finished their job—leaving the poor creature senseless on the stone step. Her crime had been riding on the street-car; waiting on her sick mother had made her late at her work and she was likely to lose a half day's pay which her meager wages could ill afford, so she got on the inhibited car and paid her nickel; when she got off she was thus attacked. When a looker-on who saw this attack informed me that he could not see an American or an English speaking woman in that brutal mob I felt like going down on my knees and thanking God; he said they were the outscourings of the many European countries which are now being dumped on our shores. We must take a firm stand and do a little fighting, if necessary, that such brutal savages be not allowed to share our costly inheritance.

But our trifling disturbances are scarcely worth mentioning. When I take up a newspaper and read what is going on in the cities and countries around us I think I am in big luck to live in Greater New York. Canada, our neighbor, has been well governed and its people were industrious, prosperous and happy, yet blood has dyed the streets of Montreal and a bitter and thoroughly organized mob still bids defiance to the law. I mention Montreal because I have always regarded it as a religious city; it has the finest Catholic Cathedral on the American continent; its worshippers have filled it three times a day—its priests have been active and pious shepherds their religious lives being equal to those of any priesthood in the world. Thousands of our sons and daughters have been educated there and many of the scholars turned out by the accomplished Sisters, at their seminaries have become bright stars in New York and Washington society. Has Satan taken possession of the Lord's pasture? Something must be wrong. What is it? Above the roar of this tidal wave of riot we can almost hear the cry of our Saviour, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

Three thousand miles away they are having the "dive's own shindy" in the city of Belfast, where brickbats, etc., are "forninst" King Edward's soldiers; thus the mob held the streets and drove the police to shelter; the fighting was desperate—bare-footed women and children taking part in the bloody fray. There is no braver set of men on earth than the Irish constabulary force, but the mob beat them with paving-stones; as a dire extremity the soldiers were called out and the mob met them as they had the police; the soldiers advanced with fixed bayonets and the mob in the street was forced to give way, but a perfect hail of brickbats and all sorts of missiles were showered on the soldiers from the houses on both sides of the street, and many were wounded before the captain gave the order to "Fire." The soldiers raised their muskets and fired over the heads of the mob. A murderous ruffian, seeing that none of the rioters were killed or hurt thought the soldiers were cowed as they had cowed the police; he turned to the rioters and cried out, "See that, now, the bloody soldier darsent fire on the onest man, give us wan more, byes; give us wan more." He was posing a big boulder above his head when the captain gave the second order to "Fire." It was not overheard this time, for the aim was taken with deadly intent and twenty or thirty were instantly killed, a large number wounded and the rest fled like frightened thieves.

Belfast, with its magnificent factories has always sheltered a riotous population; here are made these beautiful Irish Linens and Damasks, famed throughout the world; and here also, years ago, were created those splendid Irish poplins which rivaled the most magnificent silks of Lyons. The city has always been disorderly and riotous, for its workmen will drink and consequently fight. What has good King Edward done to receive such treatment from his rebellious subjects?

Ireland was never better governed than it is today; the mass of the population is better fed, clothed and housed than they have been in the memory of living men—the mud-cabin being a legend of the past. What can be the matter? No mortal man can tell what is to be the development of the coming years.

In Russia massacre rules the hour; along the Balkans for miles the sky is red with the flames of burning towns and villages, and an army of savage Turks outrage and kill the women, massacre the men and drive the children into the forests, and mountains to perish.

In Central Russia, anarchy and assassination are supreme. Moscow and St. Petersburg are military camps where fierce Cossacks of the Don guard every road, and the Czar, the absolute ruler, who holds the lives of 250,000,000 of rebellious subjects in his hand; trembles in fear of assassination, behind his fortress of steel.

I can follow this mysterious cloud that now overshadows the globe no further; it is too terrible. At the commencement of this letter I spoke of the peace we were enjoying in Greater New York; it must be taken "cum grano salis," yet I am glad that I live in this city.

During the week we have had two assassinations by the "Black Hand;" one a wealthy Italian butcher of whom $1,000 was demanded. He paid no attention to it and was killed in the open street. The other one was most singular; no money was here demanded; the victim was a murderous thug, one of the Executive Assassination Committee; he was selected to kill a man who was to be murdered for non-payment of the money demanded. The man was a life-long friend of the thug; they were boys together and he refused to kill him; so, two days later they assassinated him on his own doorstep. His case points two morals; that even the worst criminal has some good in him, and that most sins bring their own punishment.

Crimes have been numerous enough to bring General Bingham, our Police Commissioner, back from his vacation in a hurry. I confess that this is a bad showing for a peaceable city, but see what we have, notwithstanding the telegraphers' strike. We have a free press, for which God be thanked; we have 1,000 brave police, still called "The Finest;" loyal soldiers to back the police; and lastly, we have The Western Union Telegraph keeping communication open to all the world and standing like a wall of steel against anarchy and disorder. It gave all its hands, the first week of the strike, double pay; it reduced the hours of labor from eight to seven hours, and a man or woman can put in all the overtime they chose to. They feed their operators, go for them and send them home in carriages. They take no strikers back on any terms and those that are now in have life-positions and you could not drag them into a strike with an ox-team.

Meeting of Fruit Growers

The next meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association will be held in the court house Saturday, August 31, at 2 p. m., sharp.

Topic: Picking, Packing and Hauling of Fruit, S. R. Gump; response, S. B. Brown.

There are two important sides to fruit growing, and the care and marketing of the crop is too often neglected. Time and energy are expended in producing a crop of fruit and then chances are taken in getting a market for it. Join the Association and do your own shipping by co-operation.

EYE-SIGHT SPECIALIST

TWO MORE DAYS

Friday and Saturday of This Week, August 23 and 24, at the Bedford House, Bedford, Pa.

Next Visit in October.

EXAMINATIONS FREE.

DR. J. N. HELMAN

Dr. J. N. Helman of the Mahaffey Optical Company, 339 Fifth avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., will be at the Bedford House two more days, Friday and Saturday, August 23 and 24, for the purpose of testing the sight and the fitting of glasses, overcoming headaches, nervousness and all cases of defective vision, our specialties, particular attention given in the correcting of children's eyesight. We do not fit glasses unless they are needed, and when we take a case are sure to give permanent benefit. All lenses are guaranteed for two years and any change or correction needed within that time is made free of charge. Prices from $2 to $8. We do not peddle. Please call at hotel.

HOW WE DO BUSINESS

This firm carries on a perfectly legitimate optical business, giving full value for every penny received. Examinations are absolutely free. If you require glasses we will tell you so, give the price and you are at liberty to purchase or not. We do not urge you. There is no other reliable firm of eye-sight specialists making regular visits to Bedford county that do what we do—guarantee all lenses fitted for two years and make any change free of charge within that time. There is no expense after you purchase a pair of glasses, for at least two years. We use only the finest grade of crystal lenses and all corrections ground according to the prescription. We do not give you something near what you require but exactly what your case calls for. No drops or drugs used.

TO HEADACHE SUFFERERS

Headache is one of the most distressing ills that fall to the lot of mankind. While not serious in character it causes more actual suffering than most dangerous diseases. Twenty years ago all headaches were supposed to be caused in one way or another from the stomach. Now it is reversed and most all headaches and a great deal of stomach trouble can be traced to overtaxation of the eye nerves or muscles.

Hypermetropia (or far-sight), Myopia (or near-sight) and astigmatism, these three terms embrace the different structural defects which can readily be corrected with properly fitted glasses, and were every headache sufferer convinced of this fact there would be a great many more people wearing glasses and less money spent for medicine.

EVERETT, PA.

Dr. Helman will be at the Union Hotel, Everett, Pa., Monday and Tuesday, August 19 and 20.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Wants Young Men

The increasing volume of traffic to be moved over the Pennsylvania Railroad demands more properly trained men of energy and ability to fill salaried positions in the departments of Traffic and Telegraphy.

To meet this demand, Mr. J. B. Fisher, Supt. of Telegraph of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., has established at Bedford, Pa., the Pennsylvania Railroad School of Telegraphy

The Object is to supply the Railway Service with young men properly equipped to fill salaried positions of importance.

The Course will cover the theory and practice of Railway Telegraphy, Railway Accounting and Agency Work commonly used in this branch of the railway service.

Time—The time required to complete the course will be from six to eight months.

Graduates, immediately upon completion of the course, will be provided with a salaried position in direct line of promotion.

Expenses—The bulk of the expense is carried by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The cost to the student is nominal—Entrance Fee, $1.00. Tuition, $2.00, monthly. Board and room can be secured in Bedford for $3.50 per week up.

Requirements—Young men between the ages of 17 and 25 are wanted. The applicant must possess good health and have a fair knowledge of the English language, mathematics and geography. Young men of ability—energy—action—are wanted.

The New Burr McIntosh Monthly

With the August number of "the most beautiful magazine in the world" the Burr McIntosh Monthly appears in a new size. The pages are a trifle wider than heretofore, which enables the publishers to present their wonderfully attractive photographic reproductions in a more perfect form than was possible in the former shape.

The color work in this August issue is very attractive and suitable to the season. In the Department of Painting and Sculpture the life and work of Auguste Rodin, the celebrated French sculptor, is presented in most interesting detail. Among the people of the stage photographed are Lillian Russell, Anna Held, Helen Ware, Florence Reed and Adele Ritchie. An exquisite portrait of the young heir apparent to the throne of the Russians in his first trousers is given. It is a work of art from one of the finest photographers in the world located in St. Petersburg.

The panoramic form contains many beautiful pictures and altogether this mid-summer number will more than please the exacting public. The first of a number of covers by well-known painters is a part of the August number, representing an exquisite reproduction in colors from a painting by the celebrated artist, Albert Lynch. Burr Publishing Company, New York.

The Limit of Life

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60, the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged, carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitties, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. Guaranteed by all druggists 50c

China Silk Ties

The newest ties for linen collars are made of finely striped China silk. Green, mauve, gray, brown and blue are to be seen in this concept, pleated into bunchy rosettes, or double butte bows. No end cuffs is this neck dressing with the fashionable turn-over.

Pineules are for the Kidneys and Bladder. They bring quick relief to backache, rheumatism, lumbago, tired worn out feeling. They produce natural action of the kidneys in filtering waste matter out of the blood. 30 days treatment $1.00. Money refunded if Pineules are not satisfactory. Sold at Irvine's Drug Store.

DON'T PUT IT OFF LONGER

Get Rid of That Indigestion at Once by Using Mi-o-na.

Many people in Bedford are slowly poisoning themselves by chronic indigestion. Their neglect to cure sluggishness of the important organs of digestion fills the system with fermenting and decaying food that results in sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, and many other symptoms.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are for the special relief of such sufferers. They quickly cure the worst cases of indigestion and when used a few days the pain and distress often felt after meals will disappear.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets cost but 50 cents a box and do more good than a dozen boxes of the ordinary digestive tablets. F. W. Jordan gives an absolute, unqualified guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to cure. August 16-2t.

To Give Medicine to Horses

Ordinary remedies can be administered to horses in the form of a drench by adding a pint of water or a ball by mixing with linseed meal and molasses and making a roll half an inch in diameter and two inches long. Harsh remedies should always be given in water, gruel or beaten up with an egg. To make a horse eat medicine in a mash or in grain, take some of the medicine and rub the horse's nose with it before you allow him to smell the grain. The smell of the medicine on his nose deceives him, and he will eat the grain without any trouble.

THE WORST KIND

After Piles have existed for a long time and passed through different stages, the suffering is intense—pain, itching, throbbing, tumors form, filled to bursting with black blood. Symptoms indicating other troubles may appear to a thoroughly Pile-sick person.

This is when Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the only absolute Pile cure, brings the results that have made its fame.

It will cure the most stubborn case in existence and a guarantee to that effect goes with each package. It is to be had for $1.00 at F. W. Jordan's, Bedford, Pa., or from Dr. Leonhardt Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Limited Command.

John Puryear of Richmond was one of Mosby's men in the eventful days when the woods and hills of northern Virginia made the picturesque background for some of the hottest encounters of the civil war. Puryear was a more strapping when the war began and put on his first long trousers as a wearer of the Confederate gray. Nevertheless, he fought like a veteran. He lacked a veteran's balance, for, although fearless, he had not the slightest judgment, a fact which, says Mr. Munson, the author of "Mosby's Men," Mosby once recognized with considerable humor. All that Puryear knew about war was what he gathered in each mad rush through the ranks of the enemy, with his long black hair flying in the wind and his revolver hot with action. He rode like a centaur, and no enemy ever existed that he would not engage, hand to hand, hip and thigh. After one of the most daring rushes Mosby said to him:

"Puryear, I am going to make you a lieutenant for gallantry."

Puryear swept his plumed hat in a bow that was royal in its grace.

"But," continued Colonel Mosby, "I don't want you ever to command any of my men!"

Shark Worship in Hawaii.

The shark has been perhaps the most universally worshiped of all the Hawaiian animal gods. Strange as it may seem, the islanders formerly regarded the shark as being the friend and protector of all those who pay him devout attention. Each locality along the coast of the main islands of the Hawaiian group formerly had its patron shark, whose name, place of abode, history, etc., were all well known to his superstitious worshippers. The biggest and most celebrated of these shark divinities was a male, whose mouth was so large that he could easily swallow any other shark known to frequent those waters. According to the Hawaiian folklore stories, the bulk of this "god of the sea" was so great that he could not pass through the narrowest channels which separate the different islands, but spent his time swimming around the whole group and looking after the welfare of the people.

The Pelican and Its Pouch.

Among the curiosities of nature must be reckoned the pouch of the pelican, which serves equally well as a net with which to scoop up fish and as a bag to convey food to its young. When not in use the bird can contract its pouch so that it is barely discernible, but when it is fully distended it will hold two gallons of water. When the pelican is hunting for food it flies slowly about twenty feet above the surface of the water, scanning its depths for any sign of its prey. As soon as a fish is seen there is a sudden folding of a pair of wings, a downward plunge with the speed of an arrow head first into the sea, the unerring marksman reappearing in a moment and floating on the waves long enough to reveal a glimpse of a fish gliding down its capacious gullet and to shake the water from its disheveled plumage.

Men and Their Autographs.

An experienced autograph collector can almost tell to what profession a man belongs by the grudgingness or otherwise of his response. Actors and vocalists never demur. They rather seem to like it. Poets and authors of fiction accede, but with a certain cold dignity; metaphysicians and philosophers either refuse altogether or comply with a bad grace; dramatists not only send their autographs, but a quotation from their works as well; peers sign, but with a stiff and formal hauteur; judges and barristers sign in such a way that it is not possible to squeeze an I. O. U. over the name. In fact, every class has—of course, with exceptions—its own way of dealing with the impertinence of the autograph fiend.—H. I. Jennings in Connoisseur.

Social Life Long Ago.

The stately dames of the court of Edward IV. rose with the lark, dined at 11 a. m. and retired to rest at 5 in the evening. Henry VIII. went back to 10 in the morning for dinner and had supper at 4. In Queen Bess' days her maids of honor began the day with a round of beef or red herring and a flagon of ale for breakfast at about 6:30 and dined at 11, and then went to the playhouse in the afternoon, not later than 2, sometimes as early as 12:30, according to the order of the play and the day.

Two Phases of the Case.

"How long is it going to take to get through with this case?" asked the client, who was under suspicion of house breaking.

"Well," replied the young lawyer thoughtfully, "it'll take me about two weeks to get through with it, but I'm afraid it's going to take you about four years."

But She Did Tell.

Ellie—Bella told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell her Stella—She's a mean thing. I told her not to tell you I told her Ellie—Well, I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me, so don't tell her I did.—Judge.

None In Sight.

"Any interesting legends about here?" asked the tourist.

"No," returned the native slowly, "ain't never seen any, though you may find 'em if you hunt in the woods."

Why?

Johnny—Isn't a tin horn made of tin, mamma? Mamma—Certainly it is. Johnny—Then how is it that a fog horn isn't made of fog?

Starting a New Variety

There are many new varieties of fruits which were unknown a few years ago. Some of these varieties may be, and no doubt are, decided improvements upon the older ones, but there are still quite a number which are not desirable for general and profitable purposes. It is well, however, to use a little caution in making purchases of new varieties, for a market plantation especially, and to try only a few at first. If they prove desirable it will not be much trouble to order more, and if they do not the loss and trouble is not great.

Men Past Sixty in Danger

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Ed. D. Heckerman.

One of Them.
A foreign tourist who had received permission to visit one of our large asylums for the insane was surprised at the neatness, quietude and good order that prevailed within the institution. He asked if it was always like that, and the polite attendant who was showing him through the buildings said it was.

"We have what we call our violent wards, of course, but I presume you would not care to see these."

"I think not."

"It is just as well, perhaps. They are rather noisy, although, of course, we exercise the same care in providing for the welfare of the inmates that you see in this part of the institution. We also have a section where we keep the 'incurables.'"

"These inmates, then, are considered curable?"

"Their cases are at least hopeful."

"I am greatly interested," said the visitor, "but I will not take up any more of your time. You have other duties to attend to, have you not?"

"Yes, sir. This is merely one of my recreations. In one of the rooms in the main building I am engaged during most of the time in pursuing what may be called my life work."

"Your life work? May I ask what that is?"

"Haven't you heard?" said the attendant, in a tone of astonishment. "I am compiling an index to Webster's dictionary."—Youth's Companion.

For Shakespeare's Sake.

There is something remarkably attractive for an actress in the rolling cadences of the Bard of Avon, and I do not wonder that so many players dream of playing his work. I think it was in Los Angeles some years ago that a young actor who was then becoming popular decided that the time was ripe for him to do Hamlet. What his mental process was in arriving at this decision I have of course no means of knowing, but an apocryphal anecdote was told of him the morning after his first appearance as the melancholy Dane. It seems a friend approached him and said:

"How do you feel this morning?"

"I have failed to get my whole meaning into the character. I shall never play Hamlet again," was the reply.

"Oh, but you must play the part once again," remonstrated the friend.

"And why?" asked the young actor despondently.

"Shakespeare turned over in his coffin last night. You will have to do it once again, for you can't leave the poor chap in that position," said the friend.

Wanted Permanent Employment.

Old Sam had been for several days patiently sitting on the bank of the Rappahannock river near the dam, holding his shotgun in his hand.

Finally he attracted the attention of a passerby, who asked, "Well, Uncle Sam, are you looking for something to do?"

"No, sah," answered Sam. "I's gettin' paid fo' what I's doin'."

"Indeed?" answered the stranger.

"And what may that be?"

"Shootin' de muskrats dat am underminin' de dam," answered Sam.

"Well, there goes one now!" exclaimed the stranger excitedly. "Why don't you shoot?"

"Suppose I wants to lose my job, sah?" answered Sam complacently.

Racing at Ascot.

Racing at Ascot dates back a great number of years, and it is recorded that Queen Anne was the first royal personage to patronize the fixture, in 1711.

The first and second Georges were not great patrons of the turf, but they bred race horses on a large scale in order to encourage their subjects, and George III. gave a plate of 100 guineas to be competed for. Ever since those times the great annual festival on the famous Berkshire heath has met with royal favor.

Study of Man.

The only school for the study of human nature is the world. The only text books are the works of men like Shakespeare, Hugo, Cervantes, Sterne and other students who learned in that school. But the effectual study of human nature demands from the student a vast fund of love and sympathy. You will never get admitted into the heart of a fellow creature unless you go as a friend.—Robert Blatchford in Clarion.

The Dressmaker

Mercerized cotton will wear much longer than ordinary darning cotton when used for mending.

In putting ruffles or other trimming on underwear, sew the seam on the right side. Stitch a tuck above just wide enough to cover seam, then stitch the edge of the tuck down over the seam, and you have a very neat finish.

A piece of tin about 9x18 inches in size is better than a board to use when basting plaits, folds or lace insertion to sheer material, as the needle slips over it more easily. Such a piece of tin is very handy for use when stamping patterns.

When eyelets have one end round and the other pointed, punch the round end with a stiletto, then cut to the end of the point. This gives a much better shape than cutting the whole length.

A pretty dresser or sideboard cover can be made from brown linen, the ends embroidered in scallops with white embroidery cotton, and a monogram or initial worked on one end. The sides may be hemstitched.

Those who have stomach trouble, no matter how slight, should give every possible help to the digestive organs, so that the food may be digested with the least effort. This may be done by taking something that contains natural digestive properties—something like Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Kodol is a preparation of vegetable acids and contains the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It digests what you eat. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

"I never regret of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, President of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

TEN YEARS IN BED

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes A. R. Gray, J. P., of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God-send to me." Ed. D. Heckerman.

John Riha, a prominent dealer of Vinings, Ga., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Pineapple Jam

Take some sound but fully ripe pineapples and peel them, also take out all the eyes, cut each pineapple lengthwise into four pieces, then cut it up into very fine slices, weigh the fruit after it has been prepared and ready for use, then weigh an equal quantity of lump sugar; put sugar into a clean saucepan with half a gill of water to each pound of sugar and a teaspoonful of lemon juice and boil into a syrup; remove any scum with a clean spoon, then add fruit and boil together for forty minutes, stirring frequently.

When cooked put into clean jars and cover. Store away in a cool, dry place till required.

Bascom and His Students.

John Bascom, once president of the University of Wisconsin, always had a keen insight into men, and for much of his life college students constituted mankind for him. Once when he was a class officer the names of two men were read by him as absent from morning prayers. One of them, a plebeian, stopped at his desk and said: "Professor, when the chapel bell was ringing I was engaged in prayer and did not hear it."

"You're not excused," responded John, with contempt in his eye and in his voice.

Then, calling back the other man, who was about at the door on his way out of the room, he said to him:

"What's your excuse?"

"I haven't any, sir."

"You're excused."

He used to have debates in his classroom. At one of them a student, whom Bascom subsequently described as a "florid fellow," in the heat of his eloquence said, "I wish that I had the ability and the time to exhaust this subject."

"You have the time," said Bascom.—Harper's Weekly.

Smart Boy Wins.

The visitor was examining the class of small boys. He held the chalk in midair.

"What number shall I draw on the board?" he asked of one boy.

The boy replied, "Thirty-two."

The visitor drew the number backward, which made twenty-three.

"Is that right?" asked the visitor.

"Yes, sir; yes, sir," answered the boy in a timid way.

"What number shall I take now?" he asked of another.

The boy answered, "Sixty-two," whereupon the visitor drew the number backward, as before—twenty-six.

"Is that right?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

A long way back a bright eyed boy held up a wavering hand.

"What number shall I draw for you?" asked the visitor.

The boy called out, "Forty-four!" Then, when the visitor had drawn it, he yelled out, "Now, if you are so blamed smart, twist that around!"—New York Globe.

A Financial Embarrassment.

A lady who had a kindly remembrance for all her domestic servants met an erstwhile washerwoman and stopped to ask her how she fared.

"Oh, mem, it's terrible financial distress me an the childer's in!"

"Why, what is it? Are you out of employment?"

"No, mem. Work's in a fair state o' stiddiness and not a cint do I owe, but it's lashins o' trouble I've got!"

"Are you not paid promptly?"

"As promptly as the day cooms round."

"What is your financial distress, then?"

"Well, mem' (in a burst of horror), 'what's killin' me is, I earn $6 the week an' pay $8 for me board, an' God only knows how I do it!"—Short Stories.

So Many?

They went in to dinner together. He was very bashful, and she tried in vain to draw him out. Finally she began to talk books, and he became responsive. "And Hugo," she asked, "do you like his style?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "I find him intensely interesting. I've read a number of his books."

Then she asked, "Have you read 'Ninety-Three'?"

"No, I've—er—only read three. I didn't know he had written so many."

As Japanese See It.

It is said the Japanese think our grown women most alarmingly overgrown, very shocking in their costume and quite dreadful as regards their teeth and their feet—in a word, outrageous. They consider the kimono preferable to western habiliments because it so completely obliterates the lines of the figure. They teach girls to talk with their lips almost closed, concealing the teeth, and to walk with the feet parallel in tiny steps or even toeing in.—Kansas City Journal.

The Latest Hour.

"What time is it, my lad?" asked a traveler of a small boy who was driving a couple of cows home from the fields.

"Almost 12 o'clock, sir," replied the boy.

"I thought it was more."

"It's never any more here," returned the lad, in surprise. "It just begins at 1 again!"—Lustige Blätter.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

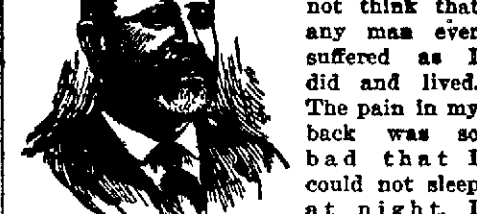

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

A. C. SPRAGUE.

Faithful to the End.

The flames crackled ominously, the water bubbled in the great pot, and seated in the shade of a palm the naked savages began to sharpen their cruel knives.

"Is there no hope?" murmured the doomed commercial traveler.

"None," hissed the ebony chief.

"Then," said the young man, pointing to his sample case, "if you are determined to eat me, at least let me ask you, as a last favor, to try our brand of mustard with the feast. I am convinced that one trial will secure us your permanent patronage, and I"—

But strong arms seized him here, there was a splash, and he was over—Los Angeles Times.

Sensible Preference.

In one of Miss Mulock's stories she says that "a cheerful heart seeth cheerful things" and gives this incident in proof of it:

A lady and gentleman were in a lumber yard situated by a dirty, foul smelling river. The lady said, "How good the pine boards smell!"

"Pine boards?" exclaimed the gentleman. "Just smell that foul river!"

"No, thank you," was the reply; "I prefer to smell the pine boards."

LETTER TO ESPY WHIP

Bedford, Pa.

Dear Sir: What will it cost to sow ten acres half wheat and half daisy mixed? and what'll the crop be worth?

We don't know what daisy-seed costs, nor how bulky it is; we suspect half wheat and half daisy would make a big crop of daisies, and last a long time; the wheat might be short.

The parable throws some light on the cost of a paint half whitewash. Whitewash, mixed half-and-half with paint, is all-paint in look and feel, indeed nine-tenths of the "paint" in the stores is part whitewash: some half, some more, some less.

Paint has to be spread with the brush, the surface prepared, the ladders scaffolds pulleys and ropes arranged and moved, there's a great deal of labor in putting paint on, it costs $2 to $4 a gallon to do it.

What does it cost to paint whitewash? Just the same. Half-whitewash? Just the same. It doesn't seem worth while, for the whitewash does harm, not good.

Will the paint hold the whitewash fast? or the whitewash loosen the paint?

Better paint pure paint, the least-gallions paint, the least-money paint, Devotee.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOTEE & CO.

Barnett's Store

is filling up with Fall Merchandise---everything that is new and desirable, we have purchased. We will be in shape this Fall to show the best and largest assortment of Dry Goods, Shoes, Carpets, Notions, &c., ever assembled under one roof in Bedford County.

It will pay you to come to Barnett's Store to do your shopping, because big assortments, reliable goods and close prices form a trio that is hard to get over if you value your dollars.

School Shoes

Next week and School---we have provided for the wants of the children, an elegant line of strong and serviceable school shoes.

We have just received several hundred pairs of the famous Budd's Shoes---no better made, and for the next 30 days we will give you very special prices on these elegant shoes for children.

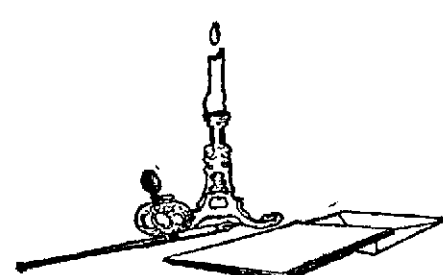

Handkerchiefs and Hosiery

Splendid assortments---some very special numbers at 10c and 12½c.

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

We have discontinued selling the New Idea Patterns, because we have been fortunate in securing much better ones. The Home Journal Patterns are far superior in every way to any pattern now on the market---head and shoulders above all other patterns in style, accuracy and simplicity. All seams are allowed and a guide chart goes with each pattern. You can't make mistakes with these patterns, no worry nor wasting of material---everything simplified. Price 10 and 15c.

You Are Judged

to a large extent by the writing paper you use. A letter written on a coarse, flimsy paper falls short of its mission.

The impression made by a good, stylish writing paper on the mind of a correspondent amounts to 40 per cent. of the whole.

By Using the Popular Eaton's Fine Writing Papers you are absolutely sure of that 40 per cent. of good impression. They are easy to write upon, attractive in appearance, strong in manufacture, and always stylish.

We carry a full line, and can show you the latest creations for correspondence. Prices run from 15c upward.

New Outings and Plaid Gingham make elegant school dresses. We have just received over a hundred pieces of these desirable fabrics, very suitable for Fall wear, 10c, 12c, 15c.
